

THE COWBOY AND THE LADY

"The Cowboy and the Lady" scored heavily at the Orpheum last night before an audience chock full of enthusiasm.

The first act, showing the Ranch at Silverville, Colorado, was a magnificent picture of mountain scenery and a credit to the theater's scenic artist. The entire play was finely staged and everything moved without a hitch.

"The Cowboy and the Lady" gives opportunity for fine acting on the part of the entire cast and all responded with ability.

There are some fine dramatic situations and the story holds the close attention of the audience throughout the play. The strongest part of the piece is its comedy, of which there is a great deal, and at times the house was simply convulsed with laughter and merriment.

Richard Buhler as Teddy North, the hero of the play, had one of his best parts. Ernest Wilkes gave a fine character impersonation of Quickfoot Jim, the half-breed Indian. Tom Lowell, Harry Auerbach and Walter Renfort, as the cowboy friends of Teddy North, were a clever trio and furnished lots of comedy. Chas. Place took a turn at playing the villain and made the character of Weston stand out. Rupert Drum, as Billy Ransom, was also good. Brenda Fowler was magnificent as Mrs. Weston, while Juliette Chandler was sweet and dainty as Midge. Lillian Heyward was fine as Molly Larkins, while Louise Orendorf was a circus as Miss Prissims and furnished no end of comedy.

The play as a whole was a fine production and deserves a successful run.

One of the things that brings a pres'n back to Hawaii, is the excellent lunch served at the CRITERION.

The CRITERION was the pioneer of the 25c lunch with a drink on the side and has more than maintained its lead.

Some of the Reasons Why!

you should always use HOLLY FLOUR, even if you have to pay 10 cents to 15 cents more per sack:

First.—You get 30 more loaves of bread per barrel.

Second.—It meets the bread-maker more than half way; it is easier to make choice bread from HOLLY FLOUR than from any other flour on the market.

Third.—Every sack of HOLLY FLOUR is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction; money refunded if not as represented.
